GRUBB TESTIFIES IN OWN BEHALF

Makes a Straightforward, Unaffected Statement of the Killing.

(Speadal to The Times-Dispatch.)

SALISBURY, N. C., May 16.—Interest in the Clay Grubbs trial reached a climax this afternoon, when the prisoner took the witness stand in his own behalf to tell how and why he killed his brotherin law, O. B. Davis, at Piney Church, Davidson county, October 18th.

His stery was told in a plain, unaffected manner, and he made a good impression on about two thousand people who visited the courthouse to hear the testimony.

Grubb said he lived one-half mile from Gruns said as lived open and his wife drove to church that Sunday morning, the day of the killing, in a buggy, driving slowly in order to reach the grounds a little late, thus avoiding Davis, whom he was informed had threatened

The defendant swears that Davis was a most dangerous man; says he saw him approach his (Grubb's) huggy, soon after reaching the church, with his hand on his hip pocket, attempting to draw something.

"Il heard my wife scream," says Grubb,
"and I jumped from behind my buggy and fired. I shot again and saw Davis weaken." The prisoner then told of numerous difficulties he had with Davis, but said they had since made friends and drank together. The defendant told of how he had stayed away from home at night through fear of Davis. The latter had been outlawed for burning barns and other depredations, and had tried to hire several men to kill the defendant.

Mrs. Grubb, wife of the prisoner, and a sister of Davis, was also placed upon the witness stand to-day. Her story was likewise told in a plain manner.

Both Grubb and his wife stood most rigid cross-examinations in a remarkable manner, and each proved good characters, while the character of Davis was proven to be bad.

Speeches by counsel begin to-morrow, "I heard my wife scream," says Grubb a monthly calendar-blotter as an adver-tisement? It is something that every business man-and every other man, needs. Do you want them to see your name or your competitor's overy time they look at it? Better les them see yours, hadn't you?

We can print you monthly calendar-blotters that will properly represent you-and will bring trade. Our prices are low, too, considering the quality of our work.
